Principal's Message

As we have celebrated our school's 60th anniversary, I am filled with immense gratitude to students, teachers, and parents who have contributed to making this year truly special. It has been a year full of remarkable events and achievements, all made possible by the dedication and hard work of our incredible school.

From the memorable St. Margaret's 60th Anniversary Celebration and Thanksgiving Dinner Banquet, the exhilarating Sports Days, the heartwarming Graduation Ceremony, the informative School Briefing Session, an engaging Open Day, to the captivating Musical, each event has been a testament to the spirit and talent that exist within our school.

I would like to extend my deepest thanks to our students for their enthusiasm and commitment, to our parents for their unwavering support, to our teachers for their guidance and inspiration, and to our non-teaching staff for their invaluable contributions behind the scenes. Their collective efforts have truly made this year a fruitful and memorable one.

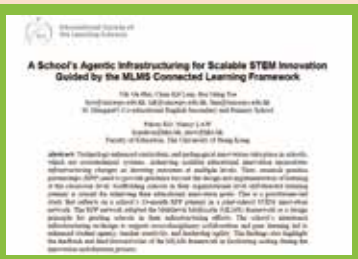

As we reflect on the past year, let us remember that it is through action and experience that we truly learn and grow. Together, we have shown that with passion, perseverance, and teamwork, anything is possible. There have been challenges, but they are present to help us grow along the way. Only through these difficulties can we learn new things, enabling us to overcome new challenges.

Here's to many more years of learning, growing, and celebrating together as a school family. May God bless you and your family!

Alumni Sharing

After the DSE examination, I have been questioning what my future would hold. When I received an unexpected offer from Tsinghua University, I struggled for a long time over whether I should stay in Hong Kong or embark on a new journey. In the end, I chose to embrace the uncertainty and take a completely unfamiliar path. What St. Margaret's taught me was far beyond textbook knowledge: the invaluable life lessons that help me navigate the challenges I encounter in my university life.

Many people will advise you to follow a well-trodden path—one that has been deemed successful by those before you, but life is full of uncertainties, and true fulfillment often lies beyond the familiar. Rather than conforming to expectations, we should follow our heart, move forward with passion, and go along our unique paths.

My time at SMCE has shaped who I am today. I found a sport that I am truly passionate about and I am very grateful for the support from the school and my teachers, that I get to continue and do what I enjoy now. University life has been great so far, filled with adventures and opportunities, and I am enjoying every part of it.

To my fellow schoolmates, if I were to give a piece of advice: stay passionate about your dreams, believe in yourself and the best is yet to come.

My time at St. Margaret's was more than just textbooks and examinations—it was where I discovered resilience, curiosity, and the friendships that still shape me today. Since graduating, I constantly find myself drawing on the foundational skills I developed at St. Margaret's. The rigorous science curriculum, particularly in chemistry and biology, gave me an early advantage in understanding complex pharmaceutical concepts, while the perseverance I developed helped me tackle demanding coursework. The teachers pushed me to think critically, the group projects showed me the importance of collaboration, and even the occasional setbacks helped me build resilience. I'll never forget how becoming the emcee at my own graduation ceremony pushed me to overcome my fear of public speaking—a skill that now serves me well when presenting research and leading tutorials. All those small moments added up to something much bigger.

A message to current students: embrace every opportunity, even the ones that seem intimidating; join that club you're curious about, ask questions in class, and don't be afraid to fail. Growth came from moments outside the comfort zone.

When I think back on my time at St. Margaret's, I am filled with immense gratitude for the dedicated, generous, and inspiring teachers and staff who provided unwavering support and resources for my academic and personal growth. The friendships and beautiful memories I created with everyone are treasures I will always cherish.

Currently, I'm studying occupational therapy in Hong Kong Polytechnic University, delving into interesting subjects like human anatomy, psychology, and related theories. My clinical placements in psychiatric hospitals have been invaluable, allowing me to gain hands-on experience in the field. These enriching experiences are made possible by the strong foundation laid during my time at St. Margaret's.

To fellow schoolmates, I encourage you to work and study hard but also cherish every moment. Make the most of your time and create lasting memories!

Volleyball has always been a big part of my life since I was in Secondary One. Making it to the university team should have been a dream come true, but in the first few months, I didn't feel that way at all. Surrounded by talented teammates, I constantly felt inferior.

Looking back, I understand now that I was so caught up in my fears and expectations that I forgot to enjoy the process. Now, I'm appreciating the present moment—the thrill of a good rally, the laughter with teammates and the satisfaction of small improvements.

My university journey has taught me to take the time to appreciate the journey, not only focusing on the destination. I now pay attention to the small moments which make the experience meaningful.

My twelve years at St. Margaret's were a period of remarkable growth, both academically and personally. These years were not only about acquiring knowledge but also about forming lasting friendships, developing values such as resilience and perseverance, and finding my interests.

When I was in S.3, I struggled to figure out my future paths and wasn't sure what I was passionate about. Fortunately, the school offered numerous opportunities for us to explore different fields, including career talks, consultations with teachers, and job shadowing programmes. These experiences provided me with insights into various professions and career paths. Through this process, I gradually discovered my passion for business and law, which motivated me to pursue my current degree at HKU.

School for Excellence in French - Advanced Level

We celebrated the occasion in which the school attained the "School for Excellence in French - Advanced Level" label, awarded by The Consulate General of France in Hong Kong and Macau, and Alliance Française Hong Kong. As the first school in Hong Kong to receive the highest tier of this quality label, we welcomed representatives from both offices to hold a presentation and convention-signing ceremony on 20 May 2025, to recognise our quality teaching and diverse cultural engagements.

Consulate Visits

In November 2024, we welcomed the Consulate General of France in Hong Kong and Macau for a brunch meeting to discuss future opportunities for broadening our school's immersion in the French community. Our students also received their DELF certificates, which were presented by the officials. The visit concluded with interactive cultural activities led by the consulate for our P.3 French learners.

The German Department, being a PASCH school, also welcomed officials from the Consulate of the Federal Republic of Germany. The FIT in Deutsch (German) Examination certificates were presented to our students in December 2024.

10th year Partnership with our German sister-school

To celebrate the 10th anniversary of our partnership with our German sister school, Carl-Fuhlrott-Gymnasium Wuppertal, we had the honour of hosting their principal, three teachers, and 20 students in January 2025 as part of our exchange programme. The visit culminated in a cake-cutting ceremony to commemorate this special occasion. During our guests' two-week stay in Hong Kong, our students led sightseeing tours throughout the city, showcasing our local culture while strengthening their connections with their correspondents.

STEAM Week

The STEAM Week, from 17 to 21 February 2025, was highly successful. A collaborative effort by the Mathematics, Science, and Technology departments brought a week full of engaging STEAM-related booth games and workshops to students.

(a) The first two days were dedicated to the "Math Fair @ STEAM Week" and the Inter-Class Leonardo Bridge Competition. Students actively explored mathematical beauty through diverse interactive tasks that fostered both discovery and practical application. Fourteen task games enabled exploration of various mathematical concepts: from constructing paper pyramids and frustums to visualize 3D solids, and integrating art with mathematics through "Polypad" designs, curve stitching, and cutting shapes, to sharpening number sense with candy estimation, Quick Math, and Make 24. A Bungy Jump Experiment also allowed students to examine factors influencing string dynamics. (b) Furthermore, the new Math Riddles initiative innovatively combined mathematical problem-solving with traditional Chinese culture, encouraging students to decipher the answers.

(c) The Inter-Class Leonardo Bridge Competition saw P.5 to S.5 students form teams to represent their classes to construct self-supporting Leonardo Bridges using only wooden sticks.

The enthusiastic participation of our students ensured a memorable and enjoyable STEAM Week for everyone.
